REPORT

OF THE

COMMITTEE ON ACCOUNTS AND FINANCES.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 31, 1894.

The undersigned Committee on Accounts and Finances for the City of Nashua have carefully examined the accounts of William E. Spalding, City Treasurer, and find the same correctly cast, and each payment properly vouched for by treasury orders for the same, corresponding in amounts with the vouchers in the hands of the City Clerk of said city. We have also examined the source from which the income of the past year has been derived, and are satisfied that he has charged himself with the entire amount as City Treasurer paid to him, and has made a correct exhibit of same in detail. We find the balance in the hands of said treasurer to be seventeen thousand eight hundred and eighty-two dollars and seventy-three cents.

INSTRUCTIONS TO KEY HOLDERS AND CITIZENS.

- I. Upon the discovery of a fire go to the nearest box, turn key in lock, and hold bolt back with key as it is a spring-lock, pull down the hook as far as it will go; shut the door. Do not try to remove the key as it is locked in, and cannot be removed unless by one of the engineers who will, as soon as convenient, release and return it.
- II. All persons giving fire alarms should remain awhile by the box so as to direct the firemen to the fire.
- III. No person will give an alarm for the same fire after the first alarm has been given without an order from an engineer or the officer in command; and the person so ordered will be sure to go to the same box from which the first alarm was given, and report to the chief engineer.
- IV. Never signal for a fire seen at a distance; never touch a box except to give an alarm of fire; do not give an alarm for a chimney fire.
- V. Never let a key go out of your possession unless called for by the chief engineer. If you change your residence or place of business, where the keys are kept, return the keys to the same officer.

REPORT

OF THE

Police Commissioners

OF THE

CITY OF NASHUA.

Nashua, N. H. Dec. 31, 1894.

To His Honor, the Mayor, and the Board of Aldermen:

The third annual report of the board of police commissioners of the city of Nashua, for the year ending December 31, 1894, is respectfully submitted.

During the past year but few changes have been made in the roster of the police department. Complaints against three officers,—Thomas Downey, Magloire Duprey and George A. Hutchins,—have been filed. A hearing was granted in each case, resulting in the exoneration from the charges in the cases of officers Downey and Duprey; the complaint against officer Hutchins was sustained and the officer discharged from the force. The charges were for violence used during arrest and for conduct unbecoming an officer.

The resignation of William C. Higgins, policeman, was received, and Alfred F. Johnson, George F. Sawyer and George W. Squires were appointed policemen. The force consists of city marshal, assistant marshal, police matron, captain and sergeant of the night patrol, inspector, turukey, fifteen patrolmen and a reserve force of 68 policemen.

We present for your consideration the report of the city marshal to the board of police commissioners for the year ending December 31st, 1894. The report in detail shows a considerable falling off in the business of the department, noticeable in the number of arrests and the receipts of the police court. The number of tramps and lodgers furnished with food and shelter shows a large increase, which is attributable to the business depression of the last year and the large number of unemployed travelling through the country. The discipline of the force continues to be good, and its efficiency will compare favorably with any police department in the state.

By direction of the board of police commissioners, CHAS. H. BURKE, Clerk.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of the department has been good, the members, as a rule, have manifested a commendable disposition to conform to the requests of their superiors and to cheerfully and faithfully perform their duties according to the rules and regulations as established for their government, by the board of police commissioners. It is but justice to the officers to say, that with a few exceptions, the force has been free from petty strife and jealousies, and while there is room for improvement, I feel assured that the officers of this department will strive to make advancement in everything that will tend to make the police force of the city of Nashua efficient and worthy of the respect of the public and tax payers. It has become a known fact that the force has been so conducted as to make Nashua a very uncomfortable place for crooks and criminals to reside in. By looking over the amount of stolen property reported at the police headquarters, $3,074.75, and the amount returned to its owners, $2,615.75, you can see how well we have succeeded. It is and has been the policy of this department to have the officers keep a strict watch over all suspicious persons on our streets, and keep them under close surveillance, and if found out upon our streets after eleven o'clock in the night time, and could not give a good and satisfactory account of themselves, to arrest them on suspicion, and lock them up at the station-house, where they would be examined in the morning. I may say right here, there are but a few of our citizens understand as to the duties of our police, the unpleasantness connected with their duties, or the dangers they are called upon to undergo. He is expected to patrol our streets night and day; to be found at his post of duty at all times, in the severest cold, storm or sunshine, he he is expected to see who goes here and there; he is expected to be everywhere at once; if there is a fire or a fight, on his beat, he is expected to be there. If not, why not?

A WORD TO BUSINESS PEOPLE.

The record book kept at the station shows the night officers have found 287 store doors open in the business places of the city during the past year, and they have either secured them or notified the proprietors. Were it not for the vigilance of the officers many larcenies might have occurred through the carelessness of some one, and the police force would have to bear a responsibility which would rightfully belong to others. I would most respectfully recommend that the public exercise more care in the future and secure their "safes" as well as their doors and windows before leaving their place of business for the night.

The Nashua police department is to serve the public and it is the duty of every citizen to report to the chief or the police commissioners the failure of any officer to perform his duty.

Such complaint will receive immediate attention. During the year many anonymous letters charging neglect of duty on the part of certain officers have been received, but no attention will be paid to any anonymous communication on any subject.

DETECTIVE DEPARTMENT.

The business in this department has been faithfully and impartially looked after and the work well done by inspector Thos. Flood. He has shown skill and energy in his duty, and has always been ready night or day when it was required, and rendered good service in the department.

POLICE MATRON.

In this trying department the matron, Mrs. Eliza Cary, has faithfully looked after the unfortunate women, and always been ready and willing to work night and day for this class of women, and in looking after them and getting them work, and by her kind words and motherly deeds has been the means of saving quite a number of these unfortunate women. Mrs. Cary takes pride in doing her work well, and she has the love and esteem of the whole force.

POLICE SIGNAL.

As I have said in other reports, I believe the city government should give this subject their careful attention, for, in order to have an efficient police force we should have a patrol wagon and some kind of a system, either telephone or telegraph. Why not commence by having a patrol wagon and ambulance at police headquarters.

JUNK MEN AND PAWNBROKERS.

This department in almost all other cities is under the control of the police department, and I would recommend a reasonable license to junk men who run stores or wagons and carts, and require them to make reports on suitable blanks furnished by the police department, and all persons doing business as pawnbrokers should pay a fair price for a license, and be restricted in the time for disposing of pawned goods, and he should be required to keep a strict record of all goods taken, and such records should be kept open to the police department under heavy penalty.

RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

This is for the relief and assistance of its members, when sick or disabled by reason of their services on the force. There has been quite a strain on this department the past year.

CONCLUSION.

To Hon. John A. Spalding, George E. Anderson and Hon. Charles H. Burke, board of police commissioners, I wish to express my appreciation for their counsels in the duties of my office, under whose direction and counsel I have endeavored to perform the duties of my office. Gentlemen, I thank you. I also desire to acknowledge my obligations to Deputy Marshal Wheeler, Capt. Geo. H. Campbell, Sergeant M. E. Watson, and Inspector Thos. Flood, and all the officers of the department who have so ably assisted me, and tender to all my hearty thanks. I also extend my heartfelt thanks to Judge Charles W. Hoitt, Associate Justice Wm. O. Clough, Clerk Jas. H. Willoughby, and City Solicitor Edward H. Wason for their kind words and assistance. I have the honor to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

ALVIN S. EATON, City Marshal.

CITY SOLICITOR'S REPORT.

To his Honor the Mayor and City Councils:

I herewith submit my report as Solicitor for the year ending December 31, 1894.

During the year several suits against the city have been disposed of as follows:

MARY SUGHRUE VS. NASHUA.

This action was brought to recover for personal injuries received by a fall on an icy walk on Washington street, February, 1892. The plaintiff's injuries were severe and permanent. The case was settled without trial for $2.500 by the committee on claims.

GEORGE W. CUSSELL VS. NASHUA.

This action was brought to recover for injuries resulting from a fall on Dearborn street in February, 1893, whereby the plaintiff broke his limb at the knee joint. The case was settled by the committee for $1000 without trial.

JENNIE M. LINCOLN VS. NASHUA.

This action was brought to recover for injuries sustained by the plaintiff's falling on Main street in front of Whiting Block, February, 1893, whereby her shoulder was fractured. The committee settled this case for $775.

ELLA F. DOYLE VS. NASHUA.

In this action the plaintiff's ankle was broken by falling on an icy walk on Tyler street, in February, 1893. This case was settled by the committee for $500.

GEORGE A. PENO VS. NASHUA.

This action was brought by plaintiff who received permanent injuries to his right limb and hip by falling on the ice on Franklin street, in December, 1892. The case was tried, and jury awarded the plaintiff $4000.

SARAH E. BROWN VS. NASHUA.

In this action the plaintiff claimed to have received severe and permanent injuries to her spine by reason of a defective highway on the Lowell road, near the house of Franklin H. Lincoln, in February, 1893. The case was tried and it resulted in a verdict for the city.

SADIE GREENLEAF VS. NASHUA.

The plaintiff broke her ankle by falling on an icy sidewalk on Arlington street, opposite the engine house, in March, 1892. The case was tried and verdict of $2,250 recovered.

LENA KNOTT VS. NASHUA.

This case was to recover for an injury to a scholar at Harbor school, who fell on a defective walk at the street line in December, 1893, and broke her limb. The case was settled for $300.

During the year only one suit has been brought against the city and this is largely due to the change in the highway law limiting the liability of towns and cities from accidents received by travelers having occasion to use our streets.

I wish to call your attention to the encroachment upon our highways by abuttors who accidentally or intentionally erect their buildings so near the highway line that water from the roof falls upon the street, causing annoyance and danger to travel, and in some cases the building itself is within the limits of the highway. Such encroachments are unlawful and should be closely watched and prevented.

I have advised with committee on claims at several meetings and responded to all requests from the city councils and city officials for opinions upon legal questions, and have tried such cases in the police court as the city marshal desired assistance.

In conclusion permit me to thank one and all with whom I have been connected for the many courtesies and kind suggestions received during the year relating to the duties of my office.

Respectfully submitted,
EDWARD H. WASON,
Solicitor.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

To his Honor the Mayor and City Councils:

The board of health herewith respectfully submit their report for the year 1894.

At the beginning of the year it was voted by the board that there should be a monthly mortuary report made and published, together with a report of the contagious diseases, and deaths from the same, added, with an appended report from the city physician for the same time. This is a distinct advancement on the records as previously kept by the board, and becomes quite valuable on the whole from a statistical standpoint. It was also seen at the beginning of the year that it was almost utterly impossible to obtain accurate reports of contagious diseases coming under the care of the various practitioners; therefore it was voted that postal cards bearing on one side the address of the board of health rooms, and on the other a printed form, giving the various data desired, should be procured and delivered to each physician for use. have met with hearty favor among the medical profession, and the report below of the number of contagious diseases proves their efficacy. The rules of the board of health have also been ordered by the board to be re-printed in a convenient form and distributed throughout the city.

The team for collecting the garbage for the city, which is run by Mr. C. E. Buckham of the city farm, was ordered during the summer months, to make daily collections, and notices to each householder were distributed by Mr. Buckham, informing them on what days the team would visit their section. This has greatly facilitated the work.

It will be seen by the detailed report that the city has passed through a year unprecedented from the number of contagious diseases existing; also that the mortality due to the same has been somewhat alarming, and that the poor alone were not the ones to be especially thus afflicted.

It is to be recommended by the board that our school buildings should receive careful and circumspect scrutiny as regards their sanitary conditions. It is also recommended that immediate effort should be made for employment of an inspector of plumbing and drainage, inasmuch as a large number of buildings are practically lacking the proper connections with our sewers.

The disposal of our garbage has become a very important and serious question to handle. That there should be some means of utterly destroying the same is beyond question; also the disposal of the contents of vaults and drywells has vexed the board beyond their power of endurance.

Cremation, in other cities, seems more fully to meet this want. When at some future time the finances of our city are in better condition, we would recommend most heartily that the consideration of some modern method be seriously undertaken for use in our city.

We have to thank the physicians and the people at large for the uniform kindness and courtesy with which they have acceded almost invariably to our wishes. Last, but not least, we recommend most strongly the constant employment of a duly appointed health officer, and that the city councils should make an annual appropriation placing the board of health in a firm position to do its legitimate work.

* Number of complaints made to board of health,
" "inspections made by " " 387

There were comparatively few notices sent and fewer sheriffs' notices served. The inspections were largely those of faulty privy vaults, and next in number faulty sink connections and water closets.

There were a larger number of water closets put into dwellings and sinks connected with the sewer during the past year than in any other one year of the city's history.

CITY PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

To his Honor the Mayor and City Councils:

I herewith submit my report as City Physician for the year 1894.

ITEMIZED REPORT.

The large number of vaccinations which occurred during the first part of the year was due to the general fear of small pox contagion which spread throughout the entire country; especially to be guarded against in our section on account of its close proximity to Canada. There has been a general increase of city patients coincident to the general depression of the times and dependent upon it. It has been especially noticeable that large numbers of formerly well-to-do people have been unable to meet their physician's bills, and for that reason asked aid of the city physician, while in other respects they have provided for themselves.

A detailed report of the monthly work is found appended to each monthly mortuary report published by the board of health.

We would recommend that an annual appropriation be made to the city physician, which appropriation we think can be made with sufficient accuracy to cover all his expenses for the year.

C. B. HAMMOND,

City Physician.

REPORT OF THE CITY ENGINEER.

To the Hon. Mayor and Gentlemen of the City Councils:

Herewith I beg leave to present to you my annual report for the year ending Dec. 31, 1894, it being the fifth emanating from this office.

The problem which confronted us at the commencement of the year was, how, with a reduced appropriation, previously too small, the requirements of the office could be met. We could not cut loose entirely and, regardless of ultimate cost, perform all the work which seemed to us of absolute importance, and therefore we were compelled to cast about and see what we could neglect which would be the least detrimental to the public service. It has been our aim to bring this department up to a high standard of efficiency such as is maintained in other communities of equal rank in population and intelligence. With a moderately fair expenditure and the progress already made, we can readily do so, but I would respectfully submit that life with us must be continually progressive in order to be sustaining, and retrenchment after all may not be true economy.

TOWN BOUNDS.

The Merrimack river forms the eastern boundary, and the Pennichuck brook the northern boundary; these being natural require no attention. The line between Nashua and Hollis is variously formed:—Pennichuck pond, Muddy brook and the Nashua river forming a part, and in addition, 14 stones, excellently well set and plainly marked completely indicate the westerly line. On the south, the state line, between Tyngsborough, Dunstable, and Nashua, with but two or three exceptions, the line bounds are unsuitable and scarcely serve the purpose intended; they would be recognized as such only when pointed out and confirmed by oral testimony. The commissioners appointed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and State of New Hampshire having correctly located the state line it would seem eminently proper to verify the accuracy of these so called bounds and replace them with suitable monuments, properly marked, so that they would be known and recognized as such on sight. I had hoped that it might have been done this past year, but found it impossible with the limited means at my command to move in the matter.

CITY STREET BOUNDS.

Substantial stone bounds, indicatively marked, should be placed at the intersections and deflections of all street lines and exact records made of their locations. Property bounds are unreliable for the reason that their position must be dependent upon something which does not exist, viz., the defining city bounds which are not there; buildings and fences, even if correctly located, are transitory in character and therefore unreliable. A commencement was made four years ago by placing sixty-one monumental bounds, followed, the succeeding year, by an increase of thirty-three, since which time, owing to the lack of funds, the work has been discontinued. The lapse of time adds to the difficulty of establishing them correctly, and serves only to increase the ultimate cost and quite likely lead to trouble when they are finally adjusted. the lines had been properly defined on Bridge street, one law suit would have been prevented and many other encroachments would not exist. An ounce of prevention in matters of this kind may be worth a ton of cure.

MAINTENANCE OF STREET GRADES.

In my report of last year I called attention to the matter of re-surfacing streets regardless of existing grades, and mentioned Amherst, East Hollis and Main streets as object lessons of the most objectionable examples. Amherst street still remains in the same condition. East Hollis and Main streets have both been attended to and their defects remedied. In this connection I beg leave to call your attention to the condition of the gutters of our streets. In the natural wearing away of the road-bed the surface is crowded over into them, and in many cases it has been allowed to stay there, and new material added to the road bed, which, if not entirely obliterating the gutters, certainly impairs their usefulness. The proper treatment would be to plow out and place the surplus in the street proper, if suitable, or cart it away and thus allow the gutter to perform its functional duty.

The street railroad has added, within the past year, to the comfort, convenience or pleasure of 537,743 people. In view of this fact who can rightfully say that it has not become a public necessity and as such entitled to respectful consideration? In the early summer the motive power will be changed to electricity and connections will be made with Lowell, giving us a continuous electric road to the sea. The changing over will involve relaying the tracks in definite conformity to permanent grades, involving considerable time and labor on the part of the city engineering department which will be additional to the ordinary current expenses. It is hoped that whenever subsequent repairing of streets becomes necessary a rigid adherence to the established grades will be maintained, and not, as in times past, left to the whim or ignorance of the road gang. We are here for the purpose of re-establishing lines and grades which have been disturbed and can do it correctly. The public, including the street railway people, have a right to demand this of us.

STREET LINES.

Monuments indicating divisional lines, when all parties interested have agreed thereto, should be sacredly respected, but in the absence of the consent of one or more parties who may be affected thereby, they are of no use legally or morallyto illustrate—A and Bown adjoining property on, say Temple street; C desires to purchase that of B but will not unless the bounds are permanently fixed. B consults A and, amicably inclined, they together put down a stone in the line of the street, or where they think it is, and the transfer follows in due time, and all seems to them to be definitely settled; but when it becomes necessary to locate the line of the street, if it encroaches upon C, then the trouble commences—by some crude reasoning C insists that he owns to that bound and that he is being injured, his realty is being taken from him, utterly ignoring the fact that the third party did not consent to the contract and so litigation commences:—the sympathy of a jury generally being for the individual, the verdict rendered is against the city instead of against A and B who unlawfully, possibly unwittingly, established the apparent ownership of the land which C has bought and it may be improved. verdict is rendered for the city the re-establishment of the street line might result in a serious loss to the individual.

Some otherwise intelligent men, appear densely ignorant in matters appertaining to street lines and ignoring entirely the importance of maintaining their integrity, even claiming to own to the centre of the street, and so, when building, pay little regard to the rights of the public, building directly on the street line, and if projections, such as eaves, bay windows, or steps are required, out they go and the public may get by the obstructions as best they may. Suits at law have been maintained, verdicts against the city for damages have been obtained and yet the obstructions have been allowed to remain. would earnestly call the attention of the authorities to this matter; the time to act should be at once, as soon as the trespass occurs. In one flagrant case where the invasion was prosecuted in a suit at law during the past year, the defense set up was "limitation of time," in other words, they admitted that they were trespassers, but that it had continued so long that they had acquired ownership of that part of the public domain which they had so occupied, and the case went up to the law term on this demurrer; this, I believe, was the first attempt ever made, so far as the records show, to peremptorily call attention to the fact that the people had vested rights in the public streets which the land owner must respect. action was "The City of Nashua vs. Thomas Donahue," in which a new building on Bridge street was placed upon an old foundation and subsequently bay windows, piazza, and steps were projected from the front into the street. In this case the office furnished abstracts of deeds with progressive sketches from the first purchase of the land out of the farm of Joshua Pierce, April 16, 1825, up to date, showing besides the dedication of the included streets, all the changes in ownership as well as the additions to, and disintegrations of, the various lots —it would seem to me that inasmuch as the defense claimed inclosing the disputed land by a fence, which was known to be non-continuous, it would have taken the case into the domain of fact as well as law. A decision has not yet been rendered.

Other and more flagrant cases could be quoted; one in which the property bound was actually moved out into the street to conceal the intrusion of a building; unfortunately for the perpetrator it was not moved far enough and the house still remains, although in less degree. in the street. Still anothera lawn, prettily graded, extends several feet over the street line, and singularly enough the line bounds were left projecting above the well-kept turf, possibly in time, or a change of grade, they may disappear altogether to be re-adjusted on the wrong end of a law suit.

ASSESSORS' MAPS.

To be of value, our assessors' maps must be accurate up to date; continual changes are being made, not only in proprietorship but in the outlines of the various lots of which they are composed. The duty of noting and recording these constant changes has been assumed by this department. Abstracts of all deeds must be made and indexed, and the changes made not only on the office maps but upon those of the board of assessors; the changes in ownership must also be recorded together with the dates and volume and page of the transfers as they appear in the Registry of Deeds. All of this involves considerable time—as an illustration of one part only we have just completed Vol. 3 of "abstracts" of deeds, comprising 360 pages, averaging about three transfers to the page. Very many of these are vague in description and require additional effort to identify. All of which shows that instead of the assessors' maps having been completed, they are simply progressional in their character. The residential lots already mapped and recorded number 5,235 and more are continually being added.

AMHERST STREET FIRE STATION.

This building is known technically as a "Three door house," and is complete in itself with stable, barn, shed, sleeping quarters and company rooms.

In the construction of this building the services of the city engineer, entirely outside of the line of his proscribed duties, were enlisted in the belief that a respectable building in appearance as well as structurally enduring in character could be added to the list of public buildings already erected. fixed sum was named to cover its construction, but the sentiment of the committee seemed to be to construct in such a manner that continual demands upon the city treasury would not be required either to correct organic defects or provide increased room for the needs of the department in the reasonably near future. In furtherance of this design, $15,000 was appropriated to be added to the bonded debt of the city as a permanent improvement, to be assumed in part by those who would, in the future, reap a proportional advantage from present expenditure and the balance of the cost to be included in the current expenses of the year. The comparative cost with others can hardly be made inasmuch as every dollar expended not only inside but outside the building, such as the cost of the grading, street retaining walls, concreting, paving in the street and even the sidewalk on Merrimack street, was included in the cost of this. I believe in no other instance has this been done.

With the erection of higher buildings the time may not be far distant when it will be advisable for the city to acquire heavier apparatus; the city of Hartford has recently put in a 15,000 pound engine, while those here weigh only 7,500. For this reason the building has been more heavily constructed than present needs might require. The cost, about $36,000, may seem large, but it will be borne in mind that perfection in building is only reached by an outlay corresponding to the required end. The first stone was laid June 27, 1893, and the completed building was transferred to the Fire Department July 17, 1894.

TOWN MAP.

Very gratifying progress has been made upon our map which embraces the whole of the township. It will show in addition to the streets, every country road and the location of every outlying farm house. It only remains to define the rivers and ponds, which will be done when frozen over. Enough has been done however, so that we are able to give the area as 33.49 square miles; the extreme length of the city is 6.82 and the extreme width 4.91 miles. The Merrimack river forms our eastern boundary and measures 7.62 miles.

SEWERS.

The time is fast approaching when further extension of our sewers will be unsafe without providing new outlets. Sewers in McKean, Williams and Bowers streets should be put in the coming summer which will complete all that can enter the main sewer in Hollis street; the remaing part of the Crown Hill district, embracing a large territory, all of the Main street district south of Allds street together with the large territory south and west of the South Common must be left until the Burke street sewer shall be completed.

The cost of the School street sewer, laid by the street department, was $251.18.

I am unable to give the cost of the others. I learn from the city clerk that the sum total expended, including that on School street, was $15,920.79.

COMMERCIAL AND HUDSON STREETS.

These streets were finished early in the summer. paying at the easterly end of Hudson street was extended on and across Hollis street to the track of the Acton railroad, 5,019 square yards of paving costing $8,266.67 were laid, making the cost $1.65 per square yard, laid. By the reestablishment of the grade Hollis street was lowered about two feet, and what was before the worst railroad crossing in the city has become tolerably good. It will be remembered that three years ago, a street commissioner using his judgment raised Hollis street and created a very dangerous cross-This surplus was taken off together with enough of the underlying dirt so that a Telford road, with the aid of our new road roller, could be constructed. This was carefully made, scrupulous attention being paid to the grade stakes, and the sidewalk was adjusted to the new street. This part of Hollis street will be subject to as hard usage as any street in the city, and the experiment of a well made road as perfect as crushed stone can make it, will be watched with considerable interest in order to ascertain its wearing qualities; without the steam road roller it would not have been possible to build a road of this character. This roller, it might be added, has done very satisfactory work upon other streets in re-surfacing.

EDGESTONE.

During the past year, on the north side, 3,502 feet have been set, costing $1,848.55; on the south side, 5,853 1-2 feet, costing $2,986.74, making a total of 9,355 1-2 feet, costing $4,835.29. About 2,500 feet of old stone have been reset which was charged in the cost above.

CONCRETE.

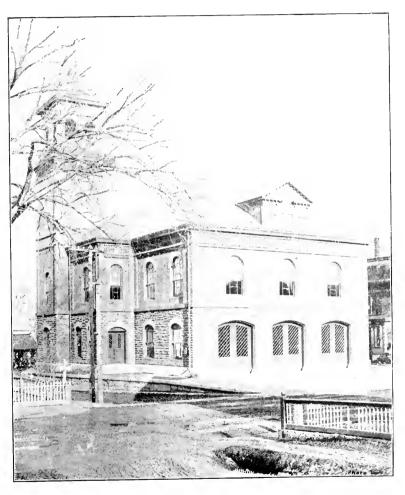

There have been 4,623.85 square yards of concrete laid at an expense of $2,412.56.

STREET NUMBERS

It is the practice in other cities to have the street numbers placed upon the residences by the engineering department, as uniformity and continuity both are better obtained if placed under the control of that department from which reliable information necessary for the proper accomplishment of the desired end can only be furnished. While we are not overanxious to add to the duties required of us, we think the interest of the city would be greatly served were it so placed.

STREET SIGNS.

Possibly it might be well to place the street signs under the supervision of the city engineer, and in that case it would be safe to say that the public taste would not be offended by such extraordinary erections as now strike the eye, of which the following is a photographic reproduction of one of several similar, now standing on one of our streets.

NEW STREETS.

During the past year the following additions have been made to our public streets:

Cherry street, .	accepted	Aug. 14,	376.75	feet

GENERAL WORK.

In addition to the above, considerable work has been done for the Edgewood cemetery. Surveys made for the city solicitor and grades given on unaccepted streets in order that when accepted, suits for damages might be avoided. Plans were also made for the curbed enclosure in Orange square, and, not the least important of all, Temple street from the crossing near the head of Amory street to its junction with East Hollis street was defined and alterations made in the above mentioned crossing which will serve to improve the whole locality as well as to reduce the danger in crossing the tracks to a minimum. The office has been kept open to the public continuously from eight o'clock in the morning until five o'clock in the afternoon, and an honest endeavor has been made to impart information whenever it has been solicited.

TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Trustees of the Nashua Public Library.

To the Honorable City Council:

In presenting their annual report the trustees would call attention to the fact that six thousand more books were taken from the library this year than were taken during the year previous, showing clearly the increasing usefulness of the library, and how thoroughly its privileges are appreciated, also that the opening of a public reading room in connection with the library was very much needed, as indicated by the attendance, which for the seven months that the room has been open amounts to five thousand visitors.

It is plain to see that this institution is yearly becoming more popular with our citizens, and is already of considerable value to the educational interests of the city. That it may furnish still more assistance to the student, it is the purpose of the trustees to add to the reference department from time to time, such standard works as the liberality of your appropriations will permit them to purchase.

The additions to the library for the year amount to 1,035 volumes, of which number 442 were purchased, the balance being received by donation from the United States government, the state and from individuals.

Your attention is called to the reports of the librarian, treasurer and auditor herewith annexed for details of information concerning the care and expenses of the library.

Respectfully submitted,

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

Nashua, N. H., January 1, 1895.

To the Trustees of the Nashua Public Library:

Gentlemen: The librarian's annual report for the year ending December 31, 1894, is respectfully submitted.

During the year 1,035 books have been added to the library. When we consider that 450 have been given by the United States government, 97 by our state, and 46 have been the gift of individuals, it will be seen that fewer books have been purchased than in any one of the past four years.

The reading room not having been contemplated, at the beginning of the year, no appropriation was made for that object, and the $1,200 necessary for its furnishing and maintenance have been taken from the sum designed for the library alone. It has been necessary to practice economy to meet the expenses of both, making it impossible to purchase as many books as usual.

Although the reading room has encroached upon the library funds, it has proved a desirable addition. In the seven months since its opening there have been 5,000 visitors.

We already need more room, many come and seeing the chairs occupied are obliged to turn away. Small boys come in large numbers. If they are asked to give place to older people it means, in many instances, turning them into the street away from that which will probably benefit them.

If a table could be arranged for the boys having magazines and papers suited to their years, it would be a desirable addition.

The reading room gives a much better opportunity for consulting the reference books which have been placed there. The public have free access to them without formal application. The books are much used, and I do not know of an instance in which they have been defaced or in any way injured.

More reference books and dictionaries would add much to the usefulness of this department. The Century dictionary ought to be purchased as soon as possible. We have no dictionary of a late date. New editions of some of the poets are needed, also more works on the arts and sciences.

There should be duplicates of some of the volumes that we now have; in history and literature particularly, as the demand for these books in the schools, clubs, and debating societies is such that we are not able to meet it. This is unfortunate, as it often discourages the student from further effort.

As the library is now open all day, many of the books literally get no rest, only coming in to go directly out, as most books are so poorly bound it is not surprising that they soon require repairing and rebinding; 260 books have been withdrawn from circulation as they have become unfit for use. As these are in the catalogue they should be replaced.

Six thousand more books have been taken from the library this year than last. There have been nearly 5,000 volumes added since the last catalogue was issued; could there be a bulletin of these it would be helpful to the public.

Necessarily the reading room has added considerably to the work of the library, and if permission could be given to have assistance occasionally as needed, it would allow many things to be done more satisfactorily. Many come for information on certain subjects, often when there is the largest demand for books to be given out, and it is impossible to give them the attention they need. As this is one of the most important parts of library work it should receive due attention.

It was necessary to close the library one week in April to make the changes required for the fitting of the reading room.

The scarlet fever being prevalent the Board of Health requested that the library and reading room should be closed on the 8th of December, and it was not reopened during the remainder of the year.

REPORT

OF THE

TRUSTEES OF EDGEWOOD CEMETERY

FOR THE YEAR ENDING DEC. 31, 1894.

To the City Councils:

Complying with the Legislative enactment, creating them, the undersigned, trustees of Edgewood cemetery, respectfully submit their second annual report.

In our report for 1893, we rendered, as fully as possible, a detailed report of the past and present condition of the cemetery, and therefore can now only report what has been accomplished during the past year, with a few suggestions as to future aims and requirements.

MEETINGS.

Regular stated monthly meetings of the Board have been held, and special meetings of the full Board and of committees as often as occasion required.

ENLARGEMENT OF GROUNDS.

Forseeing the necessity of obtaining more land, in order to properly carry out the work of endeavoring to establish and maintain a modern cemetery, a special committee was appointed early in the season, to effect, if possible, the purchase of a portion of the unimproved, wild, sprout land bordering the grounds on the northerly side as recommended in our report of 1893. A portion of this land was owned by the New Hampshire Improvement Company, John F. Stark, treasurer, and a portion was controlled by Cyrus M. Mitchell, although the title to the latter was vested in several other parties. A conference was had with Mr. Stark, and on the 26th day of June we purchased of him a gore-shaped piece of land containing about 1 1-3 acres bordering on Forest street, at the rate of $300 per acre, with payments of one-eighth cash, one-eighth in one year, and one-fourth in yearly payments thereafter until paid.

The committee had many meetings and conferences with Mr. Mitchell and some of the other parties in interest, but after several months fruitless effort to obtain anything like reasonable terms, he asking the exhorbitant price of over $2,000 per acre. The trustees, with some two hundred citizens, petitioned the Honorable Board of Mayor and Aldermen, to acquire or take, by the "right of eminent domain" such amount of the Mitchell land as in their judgment was required for public use. The petition was duly presented, a full, legal and impartial hearing held, a legal and proper viewing and appraisal made, and on the 25th day of December, the Board of Mayor and Aldermen voted unanimously to to take 6.96 acres, awarding to the parties interested and holding the title the sum of $2,500.

The area of the cemetery is now about 33 acres, bounded as follows: On the west by Amherst street, 1030 feet; on the south by Cushing street, 780 feet; on the east by Forest street, 1315 feet; on the north by the proposed Ashland street, 750 feet; on the northwest by the proposed Mont Vernon or Edgewood avenue, 654 feet. With these additions the grounds are well adapted for cemetery purposes, compact, regular in form, surrounded by streets or roadways, with the boundary lines on the east, north and north-west sides running along the crest of the hill, the land gradually descending toward the interior, forming a natural landscape amphitheatre, with woodland skirting along the borders; a portion of the newly acquired land has been cleared of the underbrush and debris; further work is contemplated early next season.

IMPROVEMENT OF GROUNDS.

Upon receipt of the appropriation of $1,500, granted us by you in April, we at once set about to expend the same carefully and judiciously, having in view the object of improving and beautifying the cemetery in a permanent manner.

About six acres of the unimproved grounds, from which the timber had been cut before we assumed control, was cleared up, the stumps and rocks removed, the soil ploughed, harrowed and seeded with oats and grass; on account of the extremely dry summer the oat crop was not a success, but the grass seed took root, and we feel that the improved appearance of these sections, which are now in suitable condition to be platted and laid out in lots, is an adequate return for the expenditure. During the spring season a large number of trees, shrubs, plants, bulbs, etc., embracing over 100 varieties, were procured and planted. A ribbon hedge of shrubbery, from seven to 12 feet in width, 500 feet in length was planted along the border on Amherst street. This hedge is composed of California privet, lonicera, berberis thunbergii and phlox. grew finely during the season and in a very short time will make a perfect mass of foliage and flowers, in striking contrast to the weeds, sand and rubbish that laid along the Amherst street fence; the ornamental areas and plats in the new sections, the areas around the chapel and the entrance were planted with shrubs, vines and flowers; while along the avenues and walks trees of larger growth were set out. A garden comprising about three-fourths of an acre has been established for propogating plants and shrubs from which practical results are anticipated. Arbor day was appropriately observed as as in the former year. About 400 feet of the old paling fence on the southerly side of the old cemetery has been removed, the material stored for subsequent use when needed, and a hedge of willows and wild barberry planted along the Cushing street border.

The opening and gravelling of avennes and paths has been continued; tasty and appropriate sign posts, bearing names of avenues, also sign-boards announcing the rules of the cemetery have been erected; several new sections have been graded, with the lots defined upon the lawn plan, notably section Q, "Hillside lawn" and section T. "Oak circle" and in the old cemetery many neglected and wild places have been planted and improved; headstones that had fallen over or become loose in their sockets have been replaced, a few that had been broken have been removed to the storehouse and the lots trimmed up, and an effort will be made the coming season to construct a portion of the pond. The interest manifested by many of the early lot holders, in causing their heretofore irregular, barren, uncared-for lots to be regraded, turfed and improved, is very gratifying.

WATER.

We have paid $100 on the contract with the Pennichuck water works company, thus reducing the interest charge to $24 per year.

About 200 feet of lateral mains have been laid with three-hose hydrant connections, two of the faucet hydrants have been removed to more suitable locations; additional mains will be required very soon. The increased demand for a plentiful supply of water is evidence of the interest shown by the lot holders in having the lawns well-kept.

DEEDS.

The sale of lots and giving a deed therefor has been greater than was anticipated. In this connection we quote from our report of 1893: "There being no record evidence of ownership, and no conveyances having ever been made, the act of the legislature authorizing the trustees to sell and convey lots," it was decided to tender to parties, who held lots under the old system, a deed of such lot for the sum of $5. The deeds were prepared dated July 28, 1893, and all lot owners whose address was known was informed by circular.

All other lots in both the old and new sections are sold by the square toot at prices varying from ten to 20 cents per square foot. Before these lots are sold they are graded and improved, seeded down and turfed, making the actual cost of the lot to the purchaser much less than under the old method, which frequently cost the owner from $50 to $100 to properly grade it." The decided advantages of this plan have been clearly demonstrated to purchasers the past season.

There remain untaken quite a number of the five dollar deeds. We trust that all who have not will avail themselves of the opportunity, for while the amount is small to them individually, in the aggregate a goodly sum is realized, which is applied in keeping the walks and avenues in the vicinity of their lots clean and in repair.

BUILDINGS, TOOLS AND FURNITURE.

The chapel is in good condition; its surroundings have been much improved by removal of the concrete paving and the substitution of a lawn and flower plat; the building is now devoted solely to the use for which in was intended. A new building or superintendent's lodge, with office and tool room, has been erected in the grove on Central avenue, near Oak circle.

INTERMENTS.

The number of interments during the year 1894, was 29 adults, 10 children; re-interments, removals from other cemeteries, 11 adults, four children.

SOLD IERS' GRAVES.

Five veteran soldiers have been buried the past season, making the number of soldiers graves, one Revolutionary, five War of 1812, one Mexican War, 45 War of 1861-5, total 52. All of which are appropriately marked by permanent, family or United States tablets and the flag. A correct record of the rank and service of each veteran is preserved.

ANNUAL CARE.

The receipts for the annual care of lots has increased 42 per cent over the season of 1893, and while in such an extremely dry season as the past, the amount received barely pays for the labor and water, we are pleased to note the increased interest manifested by the lot owners in this particular and we recommend its continuance. The number who personally care for their own lots has also increased.

PERPETUAL CARE,

Again we quote from our report of last year. "The trustees are authorized by the act of the legislature, creating the board to receive and hold in trust, property or funds bequeathed, donated or deposited for the perpetual care of lots in this cemetery, the principal of such bequest or deposit to be permanently invested, the income to be applied to the purpose designated; the trustees giving to the owner of the lot or his or her representative a bond or obligation binding themselves and their successors to preserve and keep in repair the grounds, cut the grass and top-dress. The attention of lot owners is especially invited to this important provision. The impoverishment of the soil, the destroying influence of time upon monuments, tablets and headstones, the decay of trees and shrubs, can thus be guarded against, and permanent care be continued for all time."

Agreeably to a resolution passed by your honorable body, the trust funds heretofore received by the city for the perpetual care of the burial lots of the late Edward Wheeler, Eliphaz W. Upham, Allen Wilson and Zadock Farmer have been transferred to the trustees as required by the act of the legislature.

SUPERINTENDENT AND EMPLOYEES.

The services of Mr. Franklin Temple, as superintendent, have been continued and as stated at the close of last year they have been most satisfactory to the Board and the public. The services of a gardner being considered of vital importance we employed Mr. Clarence W. Lyon for the season; his work has been faithful and efficient and his services have been secured for another year. We have found no difficulty in obtaining competent labor, paying therefor according to the work required $1.25 and $1.00 per day.

We desire to express our thanks to the members of your honorable body, to Mr. George A. Parker, late landscape gardner, Old Colony railroad; Mr. Franklin Brett, landscape architect, Brookline, Mass.; to Col. William E. Spalding, city treasurer, to Mr. Albert H. Saunders, city enginner, to undertakers Davis, Lund and Lovejoy; and to all who have so generously aided us in our endeavors.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES W. HOITT, President,

Nashua, N. H., Dec. 30, 1894.

Mayor's Inaugural.

MAYOR HOWARD'S INAUGURAL.

Delivered in the Court Room, City Hall Building, Tuesday, January 1st, 1895.

GENTLEMEN OF THE CITY COUNCILS: The first requirement which custom demands of me, as mayor, is to address you upon the obligations pertaining to the offices to which we have been elected.

I first call your attention to the finances. The following is the statement of the condition of our city as given me by the city treasurer:

CITY INDEBTEDNESS, DECEMBER 31, 1894.

Bonded debt, Time notes, Demand notes,	•	•	· ·	•	•	•	$517,800 00 176,500 00 3.850 00
			ASSET	rs.		•	$698,150 00
		0.0					01.550.40
Uncollected taxe	•	•	•	٠	$1,576 46
Uncollected taxe	es, 18	94,		•			38,884 61
Sinking fund,							12,000 00
Cash in treasury	,						17,882 24
							$70,343 31
Net debt, .							$627.806 69

There are other claims against the city in the form of delayed bills, the amount of which I am not at this time able to estimate. The financial condition of a city depends upon its growth in wealth and population. The growth of Nashua has been attended with a large outlay of money and additional sums must be expended to complete the new systems already accepted. Therefore I make no recommendations as to additional improvements, but as occasions present themselves, I trust you will give them the consideration and just decision which your oath of office requires, never forgetting these are times when economy should be the watchword.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

This department is now well organized with a board of fire commissioners and is one of the most efficient of the city's needs. The officers and the men have the confidence of the people and its managers should have our hearty co-operation in sustaining its present state of activity.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

This department comes under the control of a police commission whose report, together with that of the city marshal's, will show the conditions brought about by the change from the old system, and will give the details of the work and recommendations. This is one of the most important departments in the city government, as the people look to the police for the protection of their lives and property. Upon the efficiency of this department depends the enforcement of the laws and the good name of our city, therefore it should strive to attain the highest standard possible and the police commissioners and police force should receive our hearty co-operation in order to reach this result.

HIGHWAYS AND SEWERS.

The enterprise and thrift of a city are in no better way evidenced than by the condition of its streets. Safe and serviceable highways must be maintained. What methods shall be employed to accomplish this can be better determined upon as occasions arise for their inspection.

On the completeness of our sewerage depends the health of our citizens. Too much consideration cannot be given this subject, and our best judgment should be exercised for the preservation of life and health.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

This is one of the most valued of our educational institutions. The addition of the reading room has greatly enhanced its work to both our younger and older citizens. Our hearty co-operation should be given to aid the trustees in their attempts to make it meet the demands of a growing city.

DEPARTMENT OF THE POOR.

The change of system in caring for the poor has met with general approval. As now conducted, an examination of the books shows the amount of expenditures and the method of distribution, and all needy families can receive the personal attention of the overseer whose report shows a saving of $5,307.55 over last year.

CEMETERIES.

The improvements made at Edgewood cemetery by the board of trustees are fully appreciated by our citizens. I would recommend that a bill be introduced at the next legislature, amending the city charter so that a board of trustees may be appointed to care for the Hollis street cemetery.

CITY FARM.

However well managed, this department incurs heavy expense to the city. Its needs will be brought to your attention at such time as may be deemed advisable after a thorough examination of its conditions.

SCHOOLS.

The needs of our schools are determined by the board of education. In so far their expenditures seem judicious and necessary for the health and advancement of our scholars, they should receive our hearty approval.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL.

This institution has become one of the city's necessities. No one can question its helpfulness to the unfortunate and its work should be carried on.

I cannot conclude my remarks without referring to the subject of taxation. I know full well the burden it has become to the people. There are ways by which our indebtedness may be tided over for the present and the rate of taxation not increased.

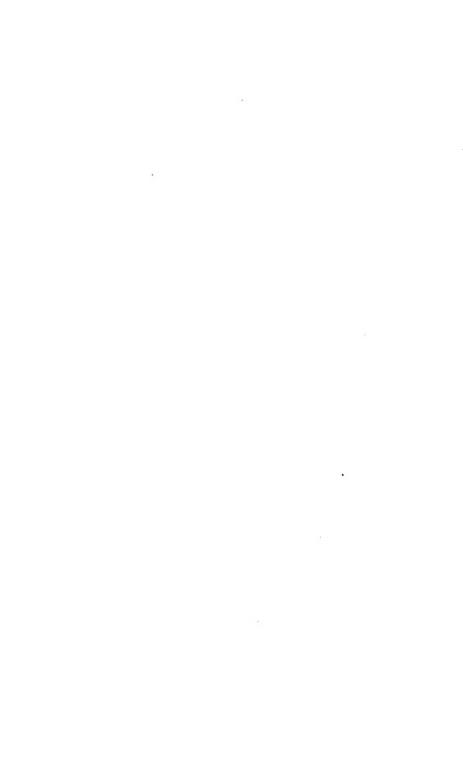

But I do not believe in shifting our responsibilities upon posterity. Exigencies will always arise and the time to cope with them is the present. I would I had the wisdom to suggest to you some plan by which an immediate and permanent reduction in our tax rate might be accomplished, but time will be required for such a result, and this can be brought about only by the most judicious management and frugal expenditures of each department. Therefore: I recommend that the city charter be so amended as to provide for the selection of an au litor whose duty it shall be to audit all accounts and bills against the city, and shall approve of no bill or account unless properly certified, and shall attend to such other duties as the city councils shall deem best.

Gentlemen, in accepting the trust of adminsitering to our city's affairs, we have subjected ourselves to the criticism of our fellow citizens.

It is my hope that all our decisions will be the result of careful thought and honest convictoin, neither swayed by favor nor awed by fear.

Superintendent's Report.

To the Board of Education, Gentlemen:

The maintaining of schools good in all particulars is the great problem which confronts the superintendent; it is so natural to accentuate some special branch and by achieving remarkable results in this, blind ourselves to the necessary loss in other branches.

The criticisms on our public schools by men of different vocations are interesting and instructive. The accountant assails the writing because it is not better and declares that not enough time is spent on acquiring accuracy in mechanical forms; the arithmetician would have half the time in schools spent on problems in arithmetic, because, he says: will the child amount to without clear reasoning powers"; the grammarian would have a large share of the time spent upon the grammatical forms and the study of English, to which he affirms, all other branches are secondary; the historian demands a large part of the time for his hobby, for he asks: "How can a child have a proper appreciation of his patriotic duty to the state without the principles of history clearly in mind;" another insists on a complete and exhaustive study of geography and yet another considers the ability to read orally correctly of the utmost importance.

Obviously, it is impossible to follow the ideas of all. The sifting and weighing of the different subjects to find their relative value requires good judgment and an accurate knowledge of the growth of mind as well as a thorough understanding of our school system.

BOOKS.

During the child's school life a large proportion of his reading is done in the schoolroom. The importance, therefore, of leading and developing the appreciation of good literature is evident. Particularly is this true as many of our stores are flooded with printed matter of the vilest sort. I am of the opinion that every schoolroom should contain a sufficient number of well chosen books to keep the children supplied with fresh reading matter throughout the year.

I would also have every building, which contains grades above the fifth, possess a school library to which the children should have free access, in order that they may have good wholesome home reading.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The changes which were made in the course of study have, so far as I have yet observed, worked well. The extension of the history course by putting the study of English history into the ninth grade and by giving a brief history of the United States to the sixth grades has increased the interest of the pupils in the subject and gives those who cannot enter the High School a broader basis for historical reading.

The introduction of language books into grades below the seventh has tended to make the work in English more uniform. This course was also strengthened by placing a technical grammar in the ninth grade.

The revision of the course of study in the High School was made after most careful consideration. The arrangement of a course of study in a High School like our own, although apparently a simple matter, is in reality a most difficult and perplexing problem. All courses have to be considered and not one can be slighted. They must work in harmony otherwise the number of teachers must be increased.

The course as at present arranged is, in my opinion, giving excellent satisfaction. It would seem unwise to make any radical change until it has been given a thorough trial in its present form.

ENRICHING THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL COURSE.

In regard to enriching the grammar school course of study there are two distinct classes. One holds that the old way of devoting all the school time to reading, writing, grammar and arithmetic is the only proper method and that any time spent on subjects outside of these detracts just so much from the thorough comprehension by the pupil; the other class maintains that this course was dry, led the pupils to have a distaste for study and through this hatred of school work thwarted one of the important ends of education, namely, the desire for selfimprovement. The enthusiasts in the latter class would almost completely overturn that idea which our grandparents had of "schooling." They would begin the study of German and French in the fourth or fifth year; Latin and Greek in the eighth and ninth year; the study of chemistry, geology, botany and zoology introduced early in the course; elementary algebra and geometry in the later part, beside water color painting in connection with drawing. Of the two courses it seems to be better to lean towards the old education rather than towards the new. The principles of evolution are as true in education as in every other line. For this reason, while we may add to, or subtract from, the old curriculum, it is presumptuous to attempt to revolutionize that form of education which has been the growth of centuries ever subject to the law of the survival of the fittest.

Acting with this idea in mind, while still maintaining the essentials, there has been introduced into the schools a systematic course in the study of natural objects. The children are taught to carefully observe the trees, shrubs, flowers, animals, birds, insects and the common metals and minerals, thus awakening their perceptive faculties. In this line also has been the enlarging of our history and language courses.

NOYES PRIZE MEDALS.

When the present method of recording the scholarship of the pupils was adopted by the board of education it became evident that it would be impossible to determine with perfect fairness the four pupils to whom the Noyes silver medals should be awarded. The matter being presented to Colonel Frank G. Noyes, he, after careful consideration, determined to make a radical change in the awarding of the medals. Instead of being as heretofore, for general excellence in scholarship and deportment for the four years, they are to be distinctly medals for excellence in English. They are to be made of gold and but two will be awarded, one to the boy with the highest rank in English, this rank to be kept on the decimal system, the other to the girl whose work shows the greatest excellence in this subject.

The money which remains after the medals are bought is to be used for the purchase of books for the High School library.

EVENING DRAWING SCHOOLS.

The evening drawing school of last winter and the one at present in session places this department upon a secure footing. The work has been enthusiastically entered into by pupils in courses both mechanical, architectural and free-hand. Last spring after the close of the school there was an exhibit of the work accomplished. Taking into consideration that it was the work of but a single term it reflected credit both on the instructors and the pupils.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

The evening school during the past winter opened at the Main street school building. It consisted of four rooms under the charge of Messrs. McKay, Clough, Smith and Rice. During the first part of the term the attendance was good and the interest well sustained; during the last part the attendance fell away rapidly, so much so that the four rooms were contracted into two. This winter the school was opened in the High School building where the pupils have the advantage of larger desks and better light.

Thus far the attendance has been good and the school bids fair to accomplish its purpose, namely, to give men and women, who have been unfortunate in securing an early education, a chance to improve themselves and also to offer to the ambitious boy or girl a good business course in bookkeeping, writing and arithmetic.

BUILDINGS.

The two requisites in a school building are ventilation and light. In regard to the ventilation it has been well said that one ought to choose a good ventilating system and then put the school building about it. It is hard for people to realize, living as they do two or three persons in half a dozen rooms, how utterly different the conditions are in school where thirty or forty pupils are placed in one room. When thoughtfully considered it is easily seen that a method of ventilation applicable to the home is probably entirely inadequate for the school. We have several buildings constructed many years ago whose system of ventilation is wretchedly poor. Something ought to be done to improve their condition in this respect. I would especially mention the Main street, Harbor, O'Donnell and Belvidere schools.

The importance of good light in the school room is apparent. The constantly increasing use of glasses among school children is very noticeable, and, without question, there are many who ought to use them who do not. While imperfect light in the school room is not the sole cause of this increase in the use of glasses yet I know of several schoolrooms in this city where the light on clouded days must be injurious to the eyes of the children. This is noticeably so in the upper rooms of the Mt. Pleasant building. I venture the opinion that were the other buildings, which have been built over twenty-five years, remodeled on modern ideas of lighting, there would be a larger amount of window glass used than they have at present.

The need of two new schoolhouses mentioned in the report of last year still exists. The lack of a building in ward Two necessitated the opening of a sixth grade in the upper story of Mt. Pleasant, and the failure to obtain the school near Kinsley street, asked for by the board of education, caused the tearing out of the cloak rooms on the second floor of the Harbor school and the finishing of this space into a schoolroom. It also compelled the overcrowding of the lower grades of the Palm and Mulberry street schools; besides the transfer of a number of children to other districts.

A word as to the character of the school buildings. The policy of most cities at the present time, unless they erect a large central school, is to put up a building at a moderate cost. Then, when the city outgrows the school, as all progressive cities are bound to do, they have not an expensive building to throw away, and usually the increase in the price of land will more than equal the original cost of the moderate building.

SCHOOL MONEY.

In touching upon the finances of the schools we must take into careful consideration the conditions under which the expenditures exist. We are not dealing with the protection of our property from fire, neither are we dealing with the construction or maintenance of a sewer system, but with the developing of the moral and intellectual power of our future citizens. In conducting a system upon which is based the intellectual growth of our children is it right to give them poor books and not enough of them; is it right to contract their necessities, to crowd fifty or sixty into a poorly lighted and poorly ventilated room, there to be kept in order by one teacher?

How much mental growth is possible under these conditions? This economy, if it is such, can be done in this city. By placing fifty or more children in a room the city could reduce the number of schools certainly one-third and the expenses in nearly the same ratio. But the result would certainly be disastrous to the welfare of the pupils, for, while saving one-third of the expenses, a far greater part of the efficiency of the teacher is being lost. How anyone could wish, much less take pride, in being parsimonious where the training and mental growth of the children of a city is concerned is beyond my comprehension. Upon the education of to-day depends the success of to-morrow. A just criticism would be that we are not progressive enough in giving the best to the children instead of which one hears only that "we are spending too much money on education." Such criticisms when rightly considered are in reality the highest commendations and the thoughtful men of the community recognize them as such. To one who has watched the growth of the mind of the child as he passes through the several stages of school life, it becomes apparent that here is happening the most important function of the state, the making of a good intelligent citizen. That the accomplishing of this work in the best way should be hampered and restricted for the sake of saving a fraction of a mill on the tax rate is a narrow and bigoted way of looking at a most important subject. The fault finding originates from the large property holders without children. They fail to realize that if the public school system were abolished, under the present socialistic tendency of the masses, their property in a very few years would be worth absolutely nothing. It is the public schools alone which can preserve the integrity of the state.

The expenses of last year will be found in the itemized report of the city clerk under "School Expenditures." Each itemized bill there has been approved by two committees of the school board and is open to the inspection of anyone who will take the trouble to call for the report.

TEACHERS.

It is due to the teachers of this city to speak of the interest which actuates the entire corps in their work. They are as a whole widely read and have a decided enthusiasm for their profession. They have organized and maintained for a number of years a teachers' club, the object of which is the consideration and discussion of pedagogical and literary subjects. The standard of literary work done in the club has been and is remarkably high. A large proportion of our teachers each year attend our summer schools.

They are keenly alive to the responsibility of their position and are constantly working for the improvement of our schools. At the present time twenty-five of our city teachers (nearly 40 per cent.) have had either college or normal training.

WORK OF SPECIAL INSTRUCTORS.

For an accurate account of the work done in drawing and music I would refer to the special reports of these two departments. It is due them however to speak of the excellent work accomplished; in music throughout all the grades and in drawing particularly in the upper grades. I wish also to speak here of the very satisfactory results which are being accomplished at the training school. The work both with the children and with the normal class deserves the highest commendation.

In closing I wish to thank all who are connected with the schools for their many acts of kindness and their uniform support during the past year.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES H. FASSETT.

Superintendent.

Report of the Director of Music.

Nasiiua, N. H., January 24, 1895.

To Mr. James H. Fassett, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:—My report for 1890 called your attention to organization and plans for the future, that for 1891 to labor and progress, that for 1892 to growth in matter and method, and that for 1893 to results which promised much for the coming years.

In this my fifth annual report, therefore, it becomes us to inquire whether or not the fulfillment of the promise of 1893 is at hand.

OUR STAR.

Emerson, the sage of Concord, wisely said. "Hitch your wagon to a star," thus intimating that when the aim is high the achievement cannot but approximate the mark. What is the star to which our wagon is hitched and how far from the mark is our achievement? Do we occupy ourselves "in sentimental directions looking for the æsthetic and spiritual advantages to be derived from singing"? Do we "aim at making our pupils good readers of music in the sense of being able to sing from notes at sight, with the same ease and certainty with which the ordinary person reads language from books"? Do we "hope to make something of musicians of our boys and girls"? To each and all of these questions let us unhesitatingly answer, Yes. But let us not forget, that, while we occupy ourselves in sentimental directions, while we strive to make good readers of music of our boys and girls, while we hope to make of some of them at least something of musicians, the great purpose of our work is the development of men and women. This is the star to which our wagon is hitched. Let us inquire then who is a man, who is a woman, and how shall the study of music contribute to the development. A man or a woman is a human being whose every power and faculty has reached the highest development of which that power or faculty is capable. Every child is endowed to a greater or less degree with thought and feeling. Music is but an expression of thought or feeling. Instruction in music therefore should not only teach the child to sing, (imitate the expression of the thought or feeling of another), to sing at sight, (read the representation of the expression of the thought or feeling of another), but should develop to its highest point of excellence the very thought and feeling of the child.

> "A thought is like a seed of corn, That springs in the human mind, As quickly as the other doth From the surface of the earth, When it is lodged by gentle wind On some warm, bright April morn.

And it, if we but cultivate,
Will grow much like the other,
And in due time will well mature,
And stalk and blow, and thus assure
The silk, and ear, that will mother
Thousands. "Twill thus propagate.

From the one, on second sowing, The farmer will an almud Gather, which in turn, if cast By careful hands, will soon vast Acres cover, and like a wood, In miniature be growing. Thus the thought in the soul of man, Like the corn, doth germinate. But grander, vaster, more sublime Than all things else, in all time, Is the fullness of its fruitage, A great and a perfect mind."

In the growth of the material seed of corn, soil, climate, sun, rain, and the watchful care of the husbandman are essential elements. In the growth of the human mind, birth, parentage, environment, and personal effort contribute much toward perfection. Yet in the development of the latter—the spiritual part of man, the essential element is communion with other and greater minds.

If, therefore, the child can sing only, (imitate the expression of the thought or feeling of another), his development from this source is limited indeed. If he can sing at sight even, (read the representation of the expression of the thought or feeling of another), his development from communion with other and greater minds will be enhanced but in a small degree, unless we lead him to the vast and ever-increasing store of thought and feeling as expressed in the compositions of the masters in the art.

In our Kindergartens the child is led to sing for pure sensual enjoyment. In our Primary, Intermediate and Grammar schools he is taught to sing at sight for pleasure and intellectual development. In our High school we are beginning to afford him a knowledge of the lives and labors of the great composers, and opportunity for the study of their creations. It is here that he begins to realize the fullness of sensual, intellectual and spiritual development, and it is alone from such development that he can pass from the confines of the school-room to active life with its attendant burdens and responsibilities, possessed of a voice with which to express his highest thought and feeling, ability to interpret the representation of the expression of the thought and feeling of another, a knowledge of the thought and feeling of the ripest minds who have expressed themselves in the art, and a standard of excellence which cannot fail to conduce to pure, elevated feeling, thinking and living.

Again let me say this—the development of men and women, is the star to which our wagon is hitched, and although the wheels upon its axles may be groaning deep in the mire and clay of earth, I rejoice that it is moving onward, ever onward, toward the beacon in the clear blue sky above, be it ever so far.

OUR ACHIEVEMENT,

How far is the star from our wagon? Alas! let us ask rather, how far is the wagon from the star?

In the Kindergarten we are singing.

In the Primary, Intermediate and Grammar schools we are singing at sight.

In the High school we are entering our boys and girls with commendable proficiency in the art, so that in September last we were able to begin a four years' course of study, based upon the works of the great masters.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL WORK.

This work is conducted somewhat as follows:

The pupils of the school are divided into Glee clubs or small classes according to their individual proficiency, and meet the Director once each week for a sixty-minute exercise.

A composer is selected for especial study during the term, and the first five or ten minutes of the music period devoted to conversation upon the interesting and important features of his life.

Mendelssohn, for example: Who was he? When was he born? What was his parentage? How were the days of his boyhood spent? What did he accomplish in early manhood? Where did he live? Who were his teachers? Whence did he draw inspiration? Who were his predecessors? Who were his contemporaries? What are considered his most important creations? What has been his influence upon his successors?

The study of one of the compositions of the master is then undertaken. Mendelssohn's "Morning Prayer," for example:

The pupils are first led to look over the text for the purpose of getting at the thought which possessed the master at the time of writing.

> "The deep repose of night is ending, Still slumber lies on every eye; The woods alone are gently bending, As though the Lord were passing by."

It is not a difficult matter to lead the pupils to picture Mendelssolm in solitary meditation at early dawn, with hands clasped behind his bending form, slowly pacing to and fro beneath the shelter of the foliage surrounding his beloved garden house. At this early hour not even the birds are awake. All is still, save perhaps the treetops gently moving in the morning breeze. How beautifully is the thought put—

"The woods alone are gently bending, As though the Lord were passing by."

Thus even in their unconscious movement acknowledging the presence of their creator.

"I feel myself as new created; Care, pain and want are passed away, Restored by sleep, I rise elated, To praise my God another day." The auxieties of the preceding night are gone, at least for the present, and inspired by the very newness of the day, even re-creation seems almost a reality.

> "This world where joy and grief abide us, Is not the pilgrums' native clime; I pass it as a bridge to guide us To Thee, across the stream of time."

Hardly has the thought of re-creation possessed his soul, when his eye perhaps falls upon the scattered and decaying foliage at his feet, and he is reminded that death and dissolution to man is nearer even "than is the jugular vein to the throat." Yes! yes! he exclaims:

"It is but a bridge to guide us To Thee, across the stream of time."

This perhaps was the thought of the composer when he wrote his "Morning Prayer."

Now let us see how he clothed it in song, how he expressed his thought in melody, and the thought of Mendelssohn has become our very own.

Such study as this is bringing the minds of our boys and girls into communion with the mind of Mendelssohn. Such thoughts as these cannot lead but to the development of men and women.

RESULTS.

Some weeks ago, while enthusiastically dilating upon the merits of our Nashua High School work in music, my companion remarked, "You say that you have spent not more than ten minutes a week conversing upon Mendelssohn, and that the facts stated to the pupils in these ten minutes are the only means of information afforded them in the work. Much indeed will they know of his life and labors at the end of the term."

Mr. Superintendent, let us see what was their knowledge.

The schools closed abruptly in the eleventh week of the term on account of the prevalence of contagious diseases in the city. They remained closed four weeks, and at the opening of the present term, four weeks ago, the study of another composer was undertaken.

Last Wednesday, after a lapse of eight weeks since conversing upon Mendelssohn, the pupils were astonished by being provided with pen, ink and paper, instead of music as usual, and each one requested to "Tell me all you know about the life of Mendelssohn."

The result was indeed gratifying, as the following specimen paper will indicate:

MENDELSSOHN.

Mendelssohn was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1809. His father was a wealthy Jewish banker, and his mother a lady of culture.

Mendelssohn showed a taste for music at an early age. His mother was his first teacher; his second teacher was a good local teacher and his third teacher was Zelta. Mendelssohn began to compose at the age of twelve. He was taken to Mocheles, a celebrated pianist of that time, and Mocheles said that he could teach him nothing about music. His father then took him to Cherubini, an Italian musician, who was in Paris at that time, and Cherubini said that Mendelssohn was a fine musician.

Mendelssohn went to England when he was about twenty years old and remained there for a while but was called home by the death of one of his parents. He made another trip through some parts of Europe and at this time met Berlioz, a musician of some renown.

Some of Mendelssohn's most noted compositions are, "The Oratorio of Elijah," "Oratorio of St. Panl," and "Overture to Midsummer Night's Dream." His part songs are considered very fine. He had an excellent memory and at one time the score of one of his orchestral compositions being lost, he wrote the piece all out again and sometime after the first copy was found and compared with the second and they were exactly the same.

Mendelssolm died very suddenly in 1847, having been sick but a short time. His predecessors were Bach, Mozart and Beethoven; his contemporaries, Berlioz, Listz and Schuman.

PREVIOUS REPORTS.

In my previous reports I have so fully discussed the work of our Primary, Intermediate, Grammar and Suburban schools that it seems hardly necessary to add anything at this time.

It may, however, be pertinent for me to call your attention to the following extracts from my reports and other writings of 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1894, regarding sight singing in the Primary grades:

If vocal music is to achieve its greatest possible success and accomplish its greatest possible good in the public schools of to-day, it, as a study, "must be intensely practical, must have a perfectly attainable goal, and a carefully defined road by which that goal is to be approached."

* * * * *

It will be well, therefore, for us to consider for a moment the child and the purpose for which he is sent to school. The latest advances in pedagogy have established that "a child is sent to school to acquire power and to acquire knowledge."

To educate, they tell us, "is to develop power; to instruct, is to impart knowledge." In other words, the child is sent to school to be educated, and the "end and aim of education is to develop the faculties of the mind and body." With respect to music, therefore, the child is sent to school to have his mental and physical musical faculties and organs developed.

As the voice is the sole physical musical organ which he possesses, and as voice building should not be undertaken until the voice is matured, our duty is to conserve the voice or physical musical organ of the child until it is matured, which places it largely beyond the public school period of the child's life, and address our attention to the development of the child's mental musical faculties, using the voice which we conserve, simply as a vehicle of expression on the part of the child of the operation of his mind.

* * * * *

I maintain that, if the best possible results are to be attained in our High and Grammar schools, it is in the Primary school that the foundation must be haid. For many years primary work in music has consisted largely of rote singing, that is, singing by imitation, and but little has been attempted in sight work until the third or fourth school-year. Now, rote singing has but little influence upon the intellectual powers of the child, appealing chiefly to the senses. It is analogous to talking, while sight singing is analogous to reading. As it is necessary for a teacher to talk with a class that the pupils may learn to use their voices naturally and pleasantly and to call out their imagination, so is it necessary that they shall have a proper amount of rote singing to the same end; but a teacher who for three or four years did little with her class, save talking, would soon be obliged to give way to a more intelligent instructor; and so the methods of the last twenty-five years and more, which for the first three or four years of the child's school-life do little but rote singing, must in the light of the new education, give way to more advanced schemes.

* * * *

Our business as teachers is to receive the child with its child's voice, conserve that child voice during that child's school life, and instruct that child in the notation.

* * * * *

When man is content to sit at the feet of the child in song, and confine his pedagogical efforts to the development of a knowledge of the printed symbols of that in which the child is already the master of us all, then, and not till then, will the greatest possible success attend his labors.

* * * * *

I maintain that the elementary knowledge of music and sight reading should be assured when the classes enter the Grammar school, and not left until the time when they shall leave it for the High school. Why? Because it is about this time that the voices of our boys begin to trouble us in entering the mutation period, with a consequent uncertainty of pitch. The fact that our boys in the past twenty-five years and more have been obliged to labor with their troublesome, changing voices, and the difficulties of notation at one and the same time, has been the primary cause of the lack of interest in singing manifested by these same boys, which has resulted in most of them giving up the work in disgust and discouragement, and being excused from the singing exercises "because they could not sing." And this one fact, to my mind, satisfactorily explains the great dearth of men singers to-day.

If we are to save our boys, we must place them in command of the elements of the notation before this period, and to do this it must be accomplished before the sixth year of school, or, in other words, when they enter the Grammar school.

* * * *

The work that Nashua has accomplished in the past few years in the line of elementary instruction in sight singing, is already attracting the attention of educators, and the method of instruction which your teachers and director have been instrumental in investigating, introducing and developing in the first three years of the child's school life will grow. It may be called the Nashua system, Inductive Sight Song, or be known by any other name you may be pleased to term it. Nashua, as the place of its inception, may be forgotten, and the name of your director in connection therewith become unknown; but the idea, its underlying principle, that the eye and not the ear in elementary instruction in sight—singing is the avenue par excellence to the mind, will live and grow, until by one name or another it shall be so recognized from the metropolis to its veriest suburb.

THE NASHUA DOCTRINE.

Thus we see that for five years Nashua has been preaching the doctrine of sight singing in the lower grades, and for five years has been battling against the traditional schemes of instruction and has maintained that the world yet would follow.

It is, therefore, with some professional pride, that I quote the following from an editorial in the Boston Herald of January 30, 1895:

"A thoughtful consideration of the papers that are appearing in the Herald regarding the teaching of music in our public schools leads to the conclusion that there is too much that is theoretical and too little that is practical in it.

* * * The most that should be attempted is instructing the pupils in sight reading, which, of coarse, includes imparting knowledge on the subject of rhythm and of the prevailing system of notation. * * * Sight reading can be made deeply interesting to pupils of even the tenderest years by a competent teacher in sympathy with the understanding and the methods of thought pursued by children. * * * Over much of the teaching of music in these institutions is waste of time, especially rote singing, which is no teaching at all, and leaves the pupils as helpless before a piece of music with which they are not acquainted as they were before. All that should be attempted is to teach them to know the intervals at sight, to sound them when they see them, and to sing them in the rhythms indicated. This once learned is never forgotten.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, let me add that it would be egotistical indeed on the part of your director to permit himself to presume for one moment that the writer of this editorial is aware that for the past few years Nashua has been working upon the general lines thus indicated. Yet such is the fact, as shown by our reports, and it is a fact to which, in years to come, we may point with commendable pride, for in things educational it is no small matter to anticipate the thought of the age even by a few short years.

Acknowledging my obligations to you, sir, the Board of Education, the teachers, pupils and citizens of Nashua, I respectfully submit this, my fifth annual report.

E. W. PEARSON,

Director of Music.

Report of Director of Drawing.

Nashua, N. H., January 21, 1895.

Mr. James H. Fassett, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:—In this enlightened day I am still occasionally asked, "Really now, what good do you think drawing does to the average school child? Of course, I know it is very nice, but—"

Let me try to answer the above. In the first place, what is meant by drawing? A really good story is never old, hence I venture to repeat this one of the child's definition. "Drawing," she said, meditatively, "drawing is thinking and then drawing around the think."

This is the fundamental idea, unconsciously stated by the little one, of the present system of drawing in the public schools.

Thinking—then drawing—doing! It is not enough that a child shall have a certain ability, he must use that ability. Individual observation and expression would bring this power to do, and the commencement of this observing, thinking, expressing, doing must be in the lowest primary grades, the earliest attempt at education. But what can these babies observe or express, of what can their unformed minds think?

The child sees with his fingers as much as with his eyes. The sense of touch is of as much value to him in the acquirement of knowledge as is the sense of sight. So there are put into the child's hands type solids and the child is led to observe these for himself, to handle, to look at in every possible position and to compare with other things. But this self-gained knowledge is useless to him unless he can express it.

The child's vocabulary is necessarily limited but his conception of form may be great, and the means of expressing form are within his power. What he learns by handling and comparing the type forms he is able to express, after his own fashion, by modeling in clay, by cutting in paper, and by drawing, long before the necessary words would have much meaning to him.

The most concrete means of expression are by modeling the object in clay. Next comes tablet and stick laying, as expressive of faces and edges. Then naturally would follow drawing, tending more towards the abstract, and lastly the completely abstract written or printed word.

The question may be asked—"How are these elements used in the present system of form study as taught in our public schools?"

The sphere is the simplest universal form, and Froebel insists, not that the teacher shall have a sphere to hold up before her class for them to study, but that every child shall be given one in his hands, to feel of, to look at, to roll. He holds it up in front, traces about it with his finger, thinks of anything, everything he has ever seen which was like it. Having found that it is smooth, is round in every way, has no edges or corners, will roll, and resembles his ball, his marbles, an orange, and so many more things, he moulds it in clay. Then he finds he can hold up a tablet, a circle which will exactly hide his sphere,—cover it. He can trace about this tablet and have a perfect picture of a sphere; he can draw a picture of it, a free-hand circle, not so perfect a picture is it, as the one he traced, yet it means as much or more to him. By and by he models and draws his apple and other approximate spherical forms.

The cube and cylinder are studied in order, compared with the sphere, modeled, drawn, and their approximates studied, modeled, drawn.

Then little stories are told about the models, "My ball is like a sphere"; "The cube has six corners", etc.; and lastly the little stories may be written, and the purely abstract stage is reached.

With the cube and cylinder, the child gets ideas of faces and edges, neither of which are found in the sphere. The child learns to know the square and oblong, he cuts them from paper, makes them with sticks, draws them. Then entering the region of historic ornament he lays his squares in a row, puts a stick above and below and he has a border.

In due order are studied the prism, the ellipsoid, ovoid, pyramid and cone. From his models, he obtains the circle, square, oblong, triangles, ellipse, and oval, the plane, round and curved faces, straight and curved edges.

The whole theory of individual drawing is based upon the fact that we are not educating children when we are cramming their heads with facts and theories, but that their education really has commenced when they can give some expression of those ideas, some manifestation of those facts.

The subject of drawing includes, from the first, three grand divisions, representation, construction, design. Representation includes all free hand drawing of the appearance of objects, tablet laying and modeling, illustrative drawing and all drawing from nature.

Constructive drawing—free hand in the lower grades, mechanical in the higher—gives the facts about objects and includes working drawings, development of surfaces, geometrical drawing.

The subject of design, decoration, includes the study of historic ornament, the principles of historic design, the application of nature to ornament and the study of original design.

Each of these three divisions contributes not only towards the child's ability in the line of skilled labor, but also to that no less important element in a successful citizen, his knowledge and appreciation of the beautiful.

Now just a word in regard to what has been and still is being done in our own schools. It gives me pleasure to report progress all along the line, and a decided gain over the previous year's work.

The spirit shown, both by pupils and teachers and their willingness to do whatever has been asked of them in connection with my work, has been such a matter of self congratulation with me that I desire at this time to make mention of it.

An exhibition of the evening drawing and day school work was held at the close of the winter term. At this exhibition selected drawings from every grade in the city and covering the work from September to April were shown together with entire lessons from nearly every grade, the object being to have every pupil represented, if possible.

While an exhibition of this kind involves a vast amount of work in collecting, assorting and arranging material, I consider an occasional one a helpful incentive to pupils and teachers. Parents and friends of the school are thus able to see just what is being done along various lines in our schools.

That part of the exhibition devoted to the evening drawing school showed some very creditable, earnest work done by the students there.

EVENING DRAWING SCHOOL.

So far this year the evening drawing school has had a very good attendance. When the school opened, the teaching corps consisted of the principal and three assistants, Mr. R. P. Elliott, in charge of the machine class, Mr. Herzog, in charge of the elementary mechanical class and Miss Locke in charge of the architectural class, with the free hand class especially under my own care. That class was found to be altogether too large for one teacher to handle so at present I am ably assisted by Miss Jackman.

The break in our school term, caused by the unavoidable closing of the schools, together with the great amount of sickness in our city, has caused a falling off in our attendance which we exceedingly regret. However, the work in all departments goes on enthusiastically and it is safe to count on some extremely creditable results.

'Tis well said, "Drawing is the framework of all kinds of art and mechanical construction; drawing is the foundation of it all; in and around and upon it is perfection reached."

Respectfully submitted,

KATE B. WENTWORTH,

Director of Drawing.
